Ref b) Announcement dated 04/04/2023 and numbered 2023-16513

As part of the system improvement and development efforts, the new market trading system version called BISTECH 3.0 will be go-live in production on Monday, June 12, 2023. In this context, it was announced in Reference (a) that three planned dress rehearsal tests will be carried out on April 15, May 13, and June 3, 2023, prior to the launch of the new environment to be used in live production with the BISTECH 3.0 transition, and that these scenario-based dress rehearsal tests will require free connection tests (login) every Saturday in March between 09:00 and 17:00. Reference (b) provides information on technical details, scenario content, and report distribution for the scenario-based dress rehearsal tests.

The BISTECH 3.0 free connection tests were completed as planned in April, and the first scenario-based dress rehearsal test was conducted on April 15, 2023.

At this point, requests from our members to continue connection tests have been received, and it has been decided to open the new environment for connection testing on Sunday, May 7, 2023, between 12:00 and 15:00, which will be used in live production with the BISTECH 3.0 transition. It is important for all our members, data vendors, and colocation customers to test their connections to the new environment with all the users listed under BISTECH 3.0 APIs and Application Users, which are already updated at <https://connect.borsaistanbul.com>. During the connection test, logging in to the system will be sufficient, and markets will be closed to order transmission. The scenario-based dress rehearsal tests will be held as planned on May 13, and June 3, 2023.
